

When the Ice Cream Van Came to Ambergate

At GANF we are always striving to fulfil pupil's ambitions however unusual they seem to be. Although we have many different placements available we continue to encourage pupils to talk to us about the different careers they would like to explore, and will always try to find a work experience placement associated with that ambition.

An example of this is when the ice cream van came to Ambergate to enable a pupil to fulfil an ambition to work in one.

Working in an ice cream van takes the same skills as working in a shop, just a slightly different environment. It still needs customer service skills, an ability to work with money, an understanding of health and safety around food and the ability to work quickly under pressure.

This was an incredibly successful afternoon where the whole school participated in purchasing ice cream from the van, and we continue to use this example today to show that anything is possible!!
