Dear Parent/Carer

Re: Relationships Education (primary) and Relationships and Sex Education (secondary)

Under the Children and Social Work Act 2017, the government committed to making Relationships Education (primary) and Relationships and Sex Education (secondary) statutory in all schools.

Relationships Education and Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) is an essential link in improving health and wellbeing outcomes for children and young people. The provision of high quality RSE is more important than ever in order to meet the needs of children and young people and to be responsive to the reality of society today. Relationships Education and Relationships and Sex Education is important for the safeguarding of all children and young people.

Relationships Education (primary) and Relationships and Sex Education (secondary) is a timetabled lesson on all timetables from KS1 to 14-16 being taught once a week.

A number of areas within RSE are also covered within our PSHE, Science and Computing curriculum, our first aid workshops and lunch time clubs also support areas within the RSE curriculum. Taking this into consideration our long-term plan for Relationship Education and Relationship and Sex Education is:

As stated in our Relationship Education, Relationship and Sex Education Policy, effective RSE does not encourage early sexual experimentation. It should teach young people to understand human sexuality and to respect themselves and others. It enables young people to mature, to build up their confidence and self-esteem and understand the reasons for delaying sexual activity. It builds up knowledge and skills, which are particularly important today because of the many different and conflicting pressures on young people.

Effective RSE is essential if young people are to make responsible and well-informed decisions about their lives. It should not be delivered in isolation. It should be firmly rooted within the framework for PSHE, which lies at the heart of our policy to raise standards and expectations for all pupils.

Relationships Education (primary), Relationships and Sex Education (secondary) involves teaching children about relationships, feelings and mental wellbeing, my body, life cycles, human reproduction and keeping safe.

Our Relationship Education, Relationship and Sex Education Policy is available to access on our website. The focus of RSE at GANF is to encourage meaningful discussion about feelings, relationships and values, as well as understand the physical aspects of sex and reproduction, and we value the input from parents and carers.

Personal beliefs and attitudes of teachers will not influence the teaching of RSE, teachers will teach in accordance with the school's agreed policy framework and national legislation.

Relationships Education (primary) is compulsory for all children, this consists of the following classes – Trent, Leamington and Hampden.

All pupils from year 7 and above will be taught Relationship and Sex Education. As parents and carers, you do reserve the right to withdraw your children from all or part of the Relationship and Sex Education provided at school, with the exception of the biological aspects covered in the National Science Curriculum.

Yours sincerely

Vicky Chapman
